

Program Outcomes

- To be individuals with high intellectual capacity, developed social skills, positive thinking, and the ability to adapt to different environments and institutions,
- To be technically equipped to work on international platforms, to have flexible thinking and action structure and multi-lingual skills,
- To be able to recognize issues that are generally accepted in the field of logistics and supply chain with the ability to think independently but can be improved, and thus to have the ability to create opportunities with innovative processes,
- To be able to examine logistics and supply chain processes using a management science perspective and analytical approaches, analyze related concepts and ideas with scientific methods, interpret and evaluate data,
- To have the ability to think analytically and synthesize with quantitative competence as required by the program,
- To have a researcher and inquisitive structure that can continuously improve the knowledge and skills acquired during education in accordance with the current market conditions,
- To be able to use the theoretical methods related to design, planning and decision making within the scope of logistics activities in application areas,
- To be able to communicate effectively in English and to have a good command of a second foreign language according to individual circumstances,
- To have the ability to manage and be managed to solve existing and potential problems encountered in practice,
- To be able to organize activities that will contribute to the personal and professional development of employees in the unit where he / she is in a managerial position within his / her authority.